Amanda N. Phillips is senior counsel with Greenspoon Marder's Real Estate practice group assisting with the representation of clients in a variety of real estate transactions. Prior to joining the firm, Ms. Phillips served as a Judicial Intern for the Honorable Thomas Lynch IV of the 17th Judicial Circuit Court.

Ms. Phillips is active in the South Florida community. In 2020, Ms. Phillips was asked to participate in the Broward County Hispanic Bar Association's Inaugural Bilingual High School Conference held at Fort Lauderdale High School. As a speaker, Ms. Phillips got a chance to interact with ESOL (English for Students of Other Languages) high school students, from all over Broward County, to discuss practicing law and the positives and negatives of being bilingual in our chosen profession.
