Anna G. Goldman is an associate in the Litigation practice group at Greenspoon Marder LLP. Prior to joining Greenspoon Marder, Ms. Goldman served as a legal intern in the Compliance department at the University of Colorado Boulder Athletics where she interpreted statutes and regulations related to athletics compliance and gender equity regulations, ensuring that coaches and student-athletes were well-versed in such policies. She also oversaw and approved student sponsorships and contracts for the department.

Before her position at the university, Ms. Goldman worked as a Judicial Intern for Justice Maria E. Berkenkotter at the Colorado Supreme Court, conducting legal research, drafting memorandums of certiorari, preparing materials by extensive research prior to oral arguments, and observing such oral arguments and chamber meetings.

Ms. Goldman earned her J.D. from the University of Colorado Boulder. Prior to that, Ms. Goldman earned her bachelor's degree in Communication/Political Science at the University of Missouri-Columbia.
