Beth-Ann E. Krimsky is a seasoned commercial litigator and trial attorney whose practice includes a broad variety of business cases, including complex real estate and land use litigation, commercial disputes, fraud based litigation and class action defense throughout the nation with an emphasis on marketing, privacy and compliance issues. She has a history of defeating class actions at many stages of the process and bringing early resolution to cases that warrant it to save client time and money. Her practice includes trial work in both federal and state courts as well as alternative dispute resolution forums such as arbitration proceedings. While litigating at all levels of the court system, Ms. Krimsky also serves a role model to attorneys she has helped to mentor both at Greenspoon Marder and in her more global community work.

Ms. Krimsky's experience defending companies facing complex class actions has brought her to both state and federal courts throughout the country covering a broad range of industries, including retail promotions, automotive warranty, credit card processing, vacation sales and debt settlement. Ms. Krimsky's land use and real estate litigation practice includes trial court litigation as well as representation of clients in quasi-judicial proceedings before city and county commissions and/or government bodies. She also has extensive experience pursuing and litigating claims under the Bert J. Harris Act and obtaining extraordinary writs of mandamus and petitions for writ of certiorari throughout the state.

Ms. Krimsky also serves as local counsel for many out of state companies with Florida matters including contract disputes for software providers and manufacturers of electronic parts, fraud claims and real estate related disputes.

Ms. Krimsky has been named by the Daily Business Review, an ALM publication, as one of the "Top 20 South Florida Women in Law" and as an "Influential Business Women" by the South Florida Business Journal. In 2010, she was awarded the "Key Partner" award by the South Florida Business Journal who found Ms. Krimsky to be among the best in her field by providing the highest quality of service to her clients while exhibiting the highest levels of professionalism and ethics.
